

Why SPC Lynette J. Brown Exemplifies the Army Values

Loyalty: SPC Brown's loyalty is in her every day. She is constantly in the right uniform and that uniform is in a professional appearance. She has supported all missions, including making sure that users are capable of doing their job, even if this means staying later on occasions.

Duty: SPC Brown has constantly completed each task given to her. She has been instrumental in making sure all computers in the unit have been successfully migrated over to Windows 7. She does not take shortcuts and is not afraid of asking for help when needed. She has taken every task and extra duty given with energy and completes them to the upmost standards. SPC Brown is also consistently on time for all formations and work, ensuring she has a ride or gives herself enough time to get there by walking.

Respect: Her respect towards others is phenomenal. She always shows the upmost professional, military courtesy to all peers, seniors and subordinates alike. She consistently puts her best foot forward, giving her best work.

Selfless Service: SPC Brown is always willing to work a little longer if needed to get a mission accomplished. On many occasions she has sacrificed her time as a single mother to help ensure the job gets done.

Honor: SPC Brown living up to each one of these values helps to show the honor she exemplifies as a part of the 6th MLC and the United States Army.

Integrity: SPC Brown consistently does what is right. She takes care of her child as well as ensures to do the right thing at work, even when she is by herself. She has called me for help on multiple occasions when I was out of the office. Shortcuts are not taken with her.

Personal Courage: Being willing to be a member of the Army, especially as a single parent, helps to really show her personal courage. SPC Brown stands for what is right, she does not sacrifice her values.

SPC Lynette J. Brown has demonstrated excellence on all she does and she has incorporated her personal values into the Army Values defining her as a valuable member of our team. She is highly recommended by the Command Team to receive recognition by our Higher Command.
